Homework in practical subjects (Art, Music, Drama, Design Technology, Computer Science and PSHE) is designed to support and extend learning in the classroom. Students may occasionally be set a short homework task, often linked to a project that develops over time. This may include brief research into a particular topic or bringing in materials or items needed for the next lesson.

Mathematics and English may each set up to one additional piece of homework per week, allowing students further opportunities to practise, consolidate and extend their learning. However, additional homework will not be set on a day when students already have homework in three other subjects.
